

Pump components

Typical areas of application for ceramic components are bushings, pistons, bearing shells, seals and ball and ball seats for valves. The components are manufactured according to customer specifications of the pump and valve manufacturers. Every pump for corrosive liquids or other chemical products can be improved or made functional in the first place with ceramic components.

Ceramic Plunger, and abrasion-resistant valves.